PopBliss: The Newest Way To Elope

February 25, 2016

Hey beauties, have you ever heard of a company called PopBliss?? You should have, because founder and wedding expert Racquel Kristi is changing the game when it come to planning the ultimate luxury wedding (did we mention the cost is $5000). I know many of our JBB readers are engaged, so think back to when you first said yes, all the emotions and sharing with friends and family....then comes the hard part discussing finances with your fiance. To be perfectly transparent on the issue many couples are choosing to either 1. have a long engagement, 2. settle for someone else's dream wedding because family is helping pay, or 3. save the money head to Las Vegas and elope. Hey I'm not bashing Vegas, my brother actually tied the knot there and it was fabulous, but let's be real who wouldn't want a chance at the perfect fairytale wedding.....enter Racquel & PopBliss (consider her your real life fairy godmother).

What is Pop Bliss you ask, it's the ultimate pop-up wedding event and it's happening this March right here in NYC. Here's the deets on this ultra luxury wedding event....

Taking place this March, up to 10 totally unconventional, ridiculously cool and radically different couples will embark on the first ever group pop-up wedding taking place at a secret location in New York City. A destination wedding, that will bring couples and their friends and families from around the world into the city that never sleeps for one majorly Instagram-worthy event. Couples will enjoy the lavishness of a celebrity wedding with their very own bridal brunch, welcome party and live-streamed wedding attended by 300 guests and reaching 2,000 people.

Package includes:

- Welcome Party – The night before the wedding the couples will join together for the ultimate date night before the big day
- Bliss Brunch – To help ease the big day nerves, the ladies and gentleman are invited to separate brunches to prepare for the big day and get their jitters out.
- Glam Suite – The brides and grooms will get the celebrity treatment before they walk down the aisle. They will get styled by the bridal stylist and expert hair and makeup team so they're in full glam for the big day.
- Pop-Up Wedding – The big moment! Couples will walk down the aisle and share personal vows during a group ceremony followed by a group reception.

This is a glamorous alternative, curated by pop-up wedding expert Racquel Kristi, to eloping or a trip to City Hall. Gone are the days where young couples are dropping fifty thousand dollars on a stale wedding that is exactly the same as their grandmothers. Millennials care more about the experience than the brand name. In an age where Millennials value unique experiences that align with their core values over lavish price-tags, PopBliss offers the solution so they can have their cake and travel the world too. The total cost of PopBliss Pop-up wedding is $5,000 per couple. www.PopBliss.co
